Regarding continued collaboration with Lund University on the strategic research area EpiHealth

The view of Uppsala University is that the collaboration between research groups of Lund University and Uppsala University within the strategic research area EpiHealth has been extremely successful during the first five-year period, 2010-2014. Along with this, and provided a favourable external evaluation, we strongly support a continued collaboration for the next five years to come. The relative distribution of funding between the participating universities should be specified in an agreement between the universities, based on the outcome of the evaluation as well as recommendations of the Steering Board of EpiHealth.
