Announcement: Post doc scholarship in virology

Scholarship
Post-doctoral scholarship with a focus on training in molecular virology, with special focus on studies of HIV-1 and HIV-2.

The Division of Medical Microbiology, Lund University, Lund, Sweden is looking for a highly talented post-doctoral fellow to be involved in studies on HIV-1 and HIV-2, including virus-host interactions, in vitro infection models as well as molecular and genetic analyses. The overarching purpose of this project is to unravel the pathogenetic mechanisms involved in HIV-1 and HIV-2 infections.

Qualifications required
We are looking for a skillful, ambitious and highly motivated postdoc to join our research group. Applicants are expected to have recent first author publications within the topic of the project, in internationally peer-reviewed journals. Previous experience from research on HIV-1 and HIV-2 in vitro infection models, molecular modeling, and genetic analysis are qualifying merits for the stipend. Ability to work independently, as well as part of a team is essential.

The applicant should not have been employed by Lund University within the last two years in order to be able to receive a scholarship. PhD degree should not be more than three years old at the last day of applying.
