Announcement:
Post-doc scholarship in blood group biology

Scholarship
We offer a scholarship in blood group biology with the aim to study the regulation and functional role of red blood cell surface molecules.

Qualifications required
The ideal candidate has a Ph.D. degree relevant for the study of red blood cells and their surface molecules. Experience from previous experimental blood group research is a merit, as is prior knowledge about advanced molecular biology, immunology, cell biology and/or proteomics. We are looking for an open-minded, positive, and self-motivated scientist eager to learn more about red blood cell biology. We expect good written and verbal communication skills in English.

The applicant should not have been employed by Lund University within the last two years in order to be able to receive a scholarship. PhD degree should not be more than three years old at the last day of applying.

Placement: Dept. of Laboratory Medicine, Division of Hematology and Transfusion Medicine, Prof. Martin L. Olsson’s group
Ref No: V 2022/626
Duration: Two years
Starting time: earliest 1 May 2022
Last day for applying: 5 April 2022
